Category: Windows-only freeware Darkspace Concept Abstract

The idea of "Darkspace" is a concept that suggests people of East Asia share a common cultural view of the Universe, in which the concept of time and space is of equal importance. Thus, they see the Universe as dynamic and interconnected. Westerners cannot relate to this concept, since the Universe is perceived as static and distinct, independent of the individual. The Universe is a black hole whose boundary is the space-time border. Everything that crosses the border goes into the black hole and is unreachable by anybody. When crossing the border, time also stops. Depending on the size of the person crossing the border, the unconscious remains within him or her, out of reach of the unconscious. The unconscious, being in reach of the unconscious of other people, is not unconscious anymore, but conscious, so to speak. The more unconscious you are, the more of it you are. As for time, it can be divided into two parts: one when you are unconscious and the other when you are conscious. This conscious part is called Present time. While you are unconscious, Present time does not exist. When you become conscious, Present time is a column inside the Universe, allowing you to access the unconscious of others. Your unconscious is connected to the other people's unconscious through Present time, making you a celestial being. While you are unconscious, Present time can travel through space and time at a speed of 0. Or, in other words, you can travel through space and time at the speed of light. While you are conscious, Present time can travel through the black hole in time. This concept is like the invisible cerebrospinal fluid that is present throughout the central nervous system. It acts as a carrier of unconscious information, spreading it to other regions of the brain. When you move away from the border, black holes are generated around you, one for each of the unconscious parts of your body. Each black hole is a door to the unconscious, allowing the unconscious to leak.

Q: In Islam it is generally accepted to be wrong, even in a society, to refuse to fulfill a blood debt? I don't want to offend anyone here, but I'm studying Islam and I'm rather confused about what seems to be an important issue.
